THE UNIVERSITY OF THE
WEST INDIES

The Code of Principles and Responsibilities for Students

I. PREAMBLE

Rights operate within a system of fundamental values. Rights and privileges go hand in hand with their corresponding duties, obligations and responsibilities. Such are the principles that bind student membership in The University of the West Indies community with the fundamental values, rights and responsibilities of the University as a community.

This Code sets out the ground rules, considered consistent with the goals and well-being of the University, for the conduct of all students who belong to the University community. This Code of Principles and Responsibilities has been written to define and explain rights, obligations and responsibilities of students while they are members of the University community. It has been written cooperatively by students, faculty and staff. In addition it seeks to set out the procedures in place to review incidents of misconduct.

This Code is subject to and limited by the Laws of the individual Campus Countries and the Charter, Statutes, Ordinances and Regulations of the University.

II. THE UNIVERSITY'S COMMUNITY PRINCIPLES

The University's mission is to advance learning, create knowledge and foster innovation for the positive transformation of the Caribbean and the wider world.

The University recognises that as a regional university supported by the West Indian peoples, and as the sole local institution equipped to meet local requirements and to relate its own developmental programmes to them, it should give priority to regional needs.

These overall goals commit the University to three central values which we share as students, faculty and staff:

- The development of all members of the University community. This value implies and affirms the dignity, worth and freedom of the individual.
- A focus on teaching, learning, research and knowledge. It upholds and sustains the fundamental importance of reasoned critical and analytical debate and inquiry in all of the University's academic functions.
- Societal enhancement that extends the commitment to individual development beyond the walls of the University to service to the broader community.

As a student of the University, you are a member of the University community. Your University experience should include achieving learning objectives, discovering new values and points of view of the world, and its deepening relationships. The high energy and close proximity characteristic of student life require extra care in a wide range of areas of daily living and contact which include relationships, respect for the dignity and worth of the individual and respect for the privacy, property and personal safety of others.

All members of staff are also part of this educational community. They cooperate to promote student learning, to disseminate and impart knowledge, to develop new knowledge and ideas. The University's responsibility includes providing, for the student, the resources and opportunities for self-improvement and for the development of the potential necessary for success within and beyond the portals of the University.

The values identified serve as the foundation for the policies and regulations governing the conduct of students and of staff. Membership in the University presumes, on the part of the student, a preparedness to help shape and support a community based on these values.

III. THE RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES OF STUDENTS

This Code is applicable to all registered students of The University of the West Indies, including those registered in joint programmes with other institutions.

The University accepts you as a responsible individual and accordingly requires that you make responsible decisions regarding your own moral, social, and spiritual behaviour and the success of the University as an educational institution. That is the basis of your membership of the University Community. This Code is thus intended to help ensure mutual respect for your rights and the rights of others and to support an environment conducive to personal and intellectual growth. In furtherance of those objectives, you are required to accept the responsibilities indicated below.

Disciplinary action on the part of the University does not preclude or supersede criminal or civil action arising from misconduct.

IV. DISCIPLINARY PROCESS

Behaviour contrary to the accepted norms is subject to disciplinary action with appropriate steps for appeal if the student disagrees with the action taken by the appropriate authorities. Disciplinary matters may be dealt with by the relevant Campus Principal or other authority designated by the Principal, or at the Hall level.

In cases considered to be serious violations of conduct, infringement of regulations or any other conduct unbecoming the status of a student each campus will establish a Disciplinary Committee to hear and determine the complaints made against the student. A legal adviser will be available to the Committee. A student is entitled to legal representation of the student's choice, but the student is responsible for the expenses of that legal representation, and may have up to two observers at the proceedings of the Disciplinary Committee.

Decisions of the Disciplinary Committee are subject to appeal within twenty-one (21) calendar days to the relevant Campus Academic Board in cases involving penalties other than suspension or dismissal.
